Welfare Costs On Increase

Public welfare costs have increased for the first six months of the year according to figures compiled from the records of Arthur W. Cole, town welfare and aid assistance agent.

Although the total payments are well above those of a similar period in 1949, the increased cost to the town has not been excessive due chiefly to the federal and state grants.

The overall picture here for relief is the same all over the state where increases have been shown particularly in old age assistance.

Public relief is dispensed under three separate headings, general relief, old age assistance, and aid to dependent children.

The general relief in Andover for the first six months was $6284, which is somewhat less than the $710 spent in the same period a year ago.

The cost of old age assistance has risen rapidly since the last year and it was during the past year that the legislature granted an additional $4 a month to each individual to be known as "leisure time activities" allowance. The cost of this allowance is borne entirely by the state.

For the first half of the year the cost of old age assistance here amounted to a total of $61,686, but this was reduced by a federal grant of $9,261, and a state grant of $23,751, leaving the town's share $8674. For the same period of last year the total cost but federal and state grants cut this to $245 for the town's share.

While the total cost has risen considerably in 1950 the state assumed most of the increase. However, money received from the state cannot be used directly for old age assistance and the town has to appropriate the state and town's share each year.

The figures given do not include administrative expenses in the department.

Carnival Draws 800 To Pomp's

The annual competitive water carnival of Pomp's bathing beach was held Sunday before a crowd estimated at 1800, one of the largest ever assembled at the beach.

Even before and after the program of water sport, patrons thronged the shore and the swimming area of the pond resulting in a total daily attendance of 2400. Competition in the events made the program one of the most interesting ever staged at Pomp's. Attracted by the annual event boys and girls, young and old, thronged to the beach on one of the warmest and sunniest days of the season.

The attractions at the West Center playground are numerous and varied as our photographer discovered when he came across the sand box, for which youngsters seem to develop a special fondness, and found Claire L. Diving Specialist To Perform At Pomp's Carnival

With the competition carnival now a thing of the past, the program directors of Pomp's pond look forward to the gigantic August 13th entertainment water carnival starring Clifford A. Pullis, director of the Cambridge Red Cross chapter and noted fancy diving specialist and canoeing expert.

Besides the feature, however, the "Mermaids of Pomp's" promise to give an equally entertaining water ballet in synchronized swimming patterns to the tune of the "Souvenir Waltz." Ballet Director Donald D. Dunn and Student Director Maureen Darby have been busy screening and placing candidates in their respective parts of the scenic event.

The preliminary schedule also includes a heretofore mystery member of the town's citizenry in a high-wire, tight ropewalking act from the tower across the beach to the shore.

The lifeguards and lifesaving students are also working on some lifesaving demonstrations, complete with comedy and scenery to roundout the longest and most entertaining carnival in the history of beach events.

Phil Christie of Chestnut st., announcer at a Boston radio station, will be master of ceremonies.

Add More Names To Voting Lists

Several more names have been added to the voting lists at recent sessions of the board of registrars in preparation for the state primaries Tuesday, Sept. 19.

Future sessions will be held Aug. 10 at the fire station, Ballardvale; Aug. 15 at the Peabody House, Phillips st., and Aug. 18 at the town house.

July Rainfall Below Normal

July rainfall in Andover was 1.96 inches according to the records of Fire Ranger John Campbell at the observation tower on Holt's hill. This is far short of the average for the month and was causing a water shortage and adding to the forest fire hazard in many parts of the state. Tuesday's rainfall of .40 inches gave temporary relief to the forest fire situation and was of some value to gardens. It was the heaviest rain since July 12, when .98 inches fell here.

Playgrounds To Hold Carnivals

A gala carnival on the Central playground is being arranged by the instructors for Monday, Aug. 14, which will climax the season's activities with a program of games and sports.

A similar program of merry-making is being arranged for the Ballardvale playground to be held Wednesday, Aug. 16. Attendants of the Shawshen, Indian Ridge and West Central playgrounds will participate in the activities at the Central play center Aug. 15. On the 16th the last three named playgrounds will have smaller programs at their own grounds.

This is the first time in recent years that the carnivals have been held. They were a feature of the season for years prior to the last war and are being revived to replace closing exercises at the guild.

The official closing of the grounds will take place Friday, Aug. 18, after which the equipment will be taken down and stored.

Meanwhile a display of playground handicraft will be exhibited from Aug. 15, to 18, in a Main street store window.

Scouts To Fly To West Point Encampment

A group of 16 explorer scouts of Andover and Lawrence will leave by plane Saturday, Aug. 5, to attend the sixth annual "Wings of West Point" encampment at Stewart field, Newburg, N. Y., a nine day period of activities with the U. S. airforce. They will return Aug. 13.

From post 72 of the Free church there will be William Hood, Richard Meadowcroft, Richard Parker, Alan and Arthur Schwartzberg, Calvin Hatch, George Bratlin, Richard Schaberg and Peter Caswell.

From post 75, of St. Augustine's church will be John Killilea and James Eldred.

Lawrence boys going with this group are Lawrence Blanchette, troop 19, Rene St. Hilaire and Albert Ginchereau of troop 10, and John Regan of troop 21.

John Sauter, Jr., scout master of troop 72, Andover, will accompany the boys as the adult leader.

The boys will leave here early Saturday morning for Bedford where they will take off at 9.30 o'clock for their trip to the New York encampment. They will be under U. S. airforce jurisdiction at all times and during the encampment will have one full day for touring the U. S. military academy at West Point.

While in camp they will receive instruction in flying, navigation, aircraft structure, engine maintenance and other skills.

Haggett's Pond Down 47 Inches

Rain Tuesday put a check to the heavy drought on the town's water supply at Haggett's pond which was down 47 1/2 inches below normal and from which a record number of 67,329,000 gallons was pumped during July.

Although the prolonged dry spell of the past two months was beginning to be felt in other communities where water conservation methods were put into effect, the situation here was not considered serious.

The drop to 47 1/2 inches below normal is about a foot lower than it was a year ago at this time. The extreme low point reached last year was 57 inches below normal which came later in the summer, yet no restrictions were placed upon sprinkling or other use of water.

The total gallons pumped in the past two months was, June, 60,161,000; July, 67,329,000, a total of 127,490,000. For last year it was, June, 59,723,000; July, 65,332,000, a total of 125,055,000. The present figure is 2,435,000 over a year ago.

Records for pumping in the past two years show that the average daily consumption for 1950, was greater than last year, yet in the 1949 drought there were several occasions where the daily pumping went over the three million gallon mark. This year the highest records were 2,800,000, gallons daily, reached on three separate days. The top daily record last year was 3,344,000, reached July 29.

Priest Observes Silver Jubilee

Over 600 members of St. Augustine's parish joined Tuesday night in a testimonial and reception to the Rev. Matthew F. McDonald, O. S. A., who on Aug. 2, celebrated the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

For this occasion all societies of the parish united in a general committee to sponsor the affair which was so large that the school hall and the class rooms had to be used to accommodate the assembly.

Beginning with a buffet supper of fried chicken at 6.30 p. m., there was a program of entertainment during which Frank G. McCarthy, Jr., Genevieve Murray and James E. Sheard sang. This was followed by general dancing in the school yard.

During the evening Fr. McDonald was presented with purses from the assembly and from the Men's club.

Frederick E. Griffin was general chairman of the affair and Mrs. P. John Connor treasurer. The supper was prepared by Robert A. Leete and Harold E. Heseltine; James Sheard was in charge of the entertainment, and William J. Young the lighting.

Assisting in serving the supper were Augustine L. Delaney, Daniel A. Murphy, Frank S. Twomey, William P. Busby, Harold Wennik, Leo Walsh, John B. McAllister, William A. Doherty, Albert E. Smart, Roland Masse and Max Albert.

Wednesday morning Fr. McDonald celebrated his silver jubilee

New "Stop" Signs On Salem Street

Police have placed new STOP signs at the corner of Salem street and Jenkins road. The signs are placed to stop Salem street traffic before it enters the intersection.

The recent number of bad accidents that have occurred at the corner, police say, make it necessary to take this step. Both roads in summer time have a large amount of traffic, much of it going into the ponds in the Harold Parker reservation where the state has also issued permits for campers and trailers.

Installation of the signs was made a few days ago and police say they will be strictly enforced.

Summon Scouts In Search For Lost Lynn Boy

Three rounds of box 3, the boy scout call, were sounded at 6:23 p. m., Sunday, to call the scouts to aid in search of a small boy lost in the Harold Parker reservation.

The lad, Robert Thistle, 5, who had wandered away from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Thistle of Lynn about 3 o'clock, was found unharmed shortly after 6 p. m., on Route 114, near the Middleton line.

Meanwhile a call had been put into the state police barracks on the by-pass and three officers responded with the bloodhounds to comb the woods where the boy was last seen.

Before the local scouts had time to assemble and leave, word was received that the boy had been found and their services were not required.

A GOOD REASON

A man, filling out a job application blank, came to the question: "Have you ever been arrested?" His answer was, "No." The next question asked "Why," was meant for those who answered the first part in the affirmative. Nevertheless he answered it with, "Never got caught."

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

THOSE GLARING HEADLIGHTS

The warning issued to motorists by safety officials regarding the illegal use of high beam headlights is a sharp reminder of that group of autoists who in many ways fail to show consideration for the "other fellow" on the highway.

The serious danger of glaring headlights when thrown into the eyes of an approaching driver is a night driving hazard that both Police Chief George A. Dane and Registrar Rudolph F. King intend to check. Police throughout the state have been asked to curb this practice and the Andover department is going to cooperate in this move.

Although the law provides that autoists must shift to the low beam when approaching 500 feet of an on-coming vehicle, or when driving on well-lighted highways, many of them fail to do so.

Such drivers contribute to the number of night accidents and there is no excuse for their failure to comply with this regulation.

They fall into the class of those who fail to heed a STOP sign, who cut out on curves or in congested traffic, who speed to beat changing lights, and in other ways show that they are reckless drivers.

If guided by courtesy and common sense much of the hazard they create on the road, and bad feeling too, would be avoided.

The annual slaughter on American highways has frequently been called a national disgrace. The number of accidents that pile up would indicate that many drivers are entirely indifferent to their own safety and that of others.

Every step taken to curtail the cause of accidents should be heartily supported by the public as it will help reduce traffic deaths and make driving a little more healthy for all of us.

The average hidden tax bill of 45 million taxpayers receiving $5000 or less per year, is over $500. Besides these hidden taxes, of course, we have the visible ones that we see as we pay. -- Walden (N.Y.) Citizen Herald.

LONDON — A British friend tells me that he never buys cigars in England before he has taken off the fancy band and examined the plain one underneath showing country of export. He takes nothing for granted. That might be a very good test of a great deal of gilded international propaganda current at the moment. Never believe anything until you know who said it or who is supplying the words to the dummy.

Atomic Bomb—The Red Herring

In the past week or so the Russians have been pretty clever at labelling international support of south Korea as imperialist warmongering. That, of course, was Hitler's method for arguing with any attempt to stop his expansion. But the Russians are more subtle than was Hitler. They reduce conflicting issues to a simple formula. You don't want atomic war? Who might use the atomic bomb if necessity arises? The United States has as good as said so. If you don't want such a weapon in use, sign on the dotted line against war. Help to stop interference by the United States and the United Nations in what is a purely domestic Korean affair. This is merely another variation of the earlier Russian argument that whoever should use the atomic bomb first would be labelled the aggressor. Regardless of what should happen before its use, it's really very simple. Play on the emotions and cloud the issue with sentiment.

Events in Korea and the East provide Russia with potential propaganda to split the allies. And we must be ready to expect more bad news—and more efforts by Moscow to drive a wedge between us. In our impatience and annoyance we are very apt to lose perspective. The United States forces have been rather badly mauled by the Reds. But that was to be anticipated from the suddenness of the attack. The fact is that our forces fighting under United Nations auspices have been a quick and encouraging victory for the communist world.

Nehru's Wedge Between The Allies

We must keep that perspective before us, else we can become easy prey to increasing propaganda from Moscow. Already the Kremlin is trying to drive in a wedge between us. If we show any signs of hesitation or confusion, Russia will take advantage of the situation. Mr. Nehru's "offer" to Russia has already played into her hands. She is by no means committed to the Korean adventure, although it cannot yet be asserted that Stalin does not want a general war. But the existence of talking with the fighting suggests that Korea is an accelerated phase of the cold war at this date. But Nehru's offer immediately gave Moscow the opportunity to pose as the peace-loving nation, and almost put the burden of aggression upon the United Nations. Let the United Nations recognize Red China, suggested Nehru, as a necessary prerequisite for the return of Russia to the security council and a negotiated settlement of the Korean question.

Great Britain has long ago recognized Mao's government—to no apparent advantage. But the United States has refused to follow suit. Could Russia have been offered a better wedge to drive between the Allies at such a moment?

Formosa—Another Wedge?

And Moscow will in all probability be offered another opportunity soon. What about Formosa? Mao Tse-tung claims that Formosa is an integral part of his China. This raises the difficult question of the relations between Formosa and the United States and other nations. America's attitude on Formosa has recently changed from almost complete indifference to a decision to prevent landings by Mao's troops. But similar orders have not been given to British naval forces, because the United Nations resolution authorizing assistance to Korea did not include such assistance to Formosa. Here is a dangerous issue for divergence between the allies. Especially if Mao is persuaded to attack Formosa. If anyone is adept at playing off one opponent against the other, it is Stalin.

Watch For Communist Propaganda

Another potential sore spot that could develop into a raw wound is the question of what troops and materials should be supplied by other nations to the Korean front. Salt is already being rubbed in both in the United States and Britain where reports are that America wants to know where Britain is. And it doesn't take much imagination to know who is helping to apply the salt. In Hyde Park the other Sunday we listened to communist speakers, and they were using all these points to make it appear that Britain should do nothing to aid imperialistic America. Peace petitions are being busily circulated by organizations working for the communist front, with glib schoolgirls and boys used as speakers and petition circulators. The head of the British communist party recently flew to Moscow. What for? The heat is on, the cold war is being stepped up. It would be much cheaper for Russia if the allies fell out. And the result would be just the same for Moscow. Maybe Russia wants a war. But if she can get what she wants without one, why go to that extreme?

There's going to be plenty of undercover work from the communists. The recent explosion at the Portsmouth dockyard was the work of expert saboteurs. But much more insidious and dangerous is propaganda. It's hard to track down. It's very insidious. We should be on our guard. Don't sign on the dotted line without reading the words. Don't believe what you hear before you know who is saying it. And then use your own good horse sense. It is very subtle and persuasive.

Information For Veterans

Q — I am the widow of a World War II Veteran, and I also served during the war in the WAC. Under a new law, I understand that I, as an unremarried widow, am eligible for a GI home loan. But I also am eligible under my own rights as a veteran. Can I get two GI home loans, one as a widow and the other as a veteran?

A — No. Widows eligible for GI loans because of their own service are not entitled to additional loan benefits as widows.

Q — I graduated from high school under the GI Bill this June, and in the fall I'd like to go on to college, also under the GI Bill. Does VA consider this a change of course, and will I have to submit justification before I can enroll?

A — VA will not consider your college training as a change of course, so you will not be required to submit justification to take it. All you need do is obtain a supplemental certificate of eligibility from the VA regional office which maintains your records.

Q — My nephew was admitted to a VA hospital and I paid his train fare to get there. Is there any way the Government will refund the cost of the trip?

A — If VA authorized travel before the trip began, you may be entitled to a refund. Apply for it at the VA office or hospital that authorized transportation.

Q — If I enter a VA domiciliary home, may I accept outside employment and still remain in the home?

A — No. One of the requirements of eligibility for domiciliary care is that the veteran have a disability or disease which prevents him from earning a living for a prospective period of time.

CAN DO

Temporary Finish For Fresh Walls

A LONG ABOUT this time of the year a lot of new houses are nearing completion, and the owners are proudly awaiting the day they'll be able to move in.

If you are one of these lucky persons and yours is a family with a couple of small children, one of the minor problems you'll have to face will be what kind of attitude you are going to adopt with respect to those fine, freshly plastered walls.

You know, of course, that it is mandatory to let the plaster dry out for at least two months before giving them a permanent coat of oil paint. But perhaps you have reasons for wanting to give the walls some kind of temporary finish in the meanwhile, before you move in. (For instance, if you have a small boy, he has 10 such reasons at his fingertips.)

At any rate, here is a recommended process for giving the walls an attractive temporary covering:

First of all, it is considered a wise precaution to neutralize the free lime present in the fresh plaster by coating the walls with zinc sulphate. Use one pound of the chemical to a gallon of water. After several days, brush off any small crystals that may have formed on the walls.

The kind of paint to use at this stage of the game is the resin-base, water emulsion variety, available under several different brand names.

This resin-base, water emulsion paint is made now in a glossy finish that you will find suitable for use in the kitchen and bathroom. The flat paint is good for living room, dining room and bed rooms. It's easy to apply, either with a brush or roller.

Now you'll have a safe and satisfactory interior paint job. If and when you want to change to a permanent oil paint, just clean the wall surfaces and apply a coat of varnish-size before painting.

Helen Glidden of Cheever circle and Marion Glennie of Wolcott ave., have returned from two weeks' vacation which was spent on Cape Cod.

HERE'S something not many people know. The shellac you buy so casually at your hardware store is the product of an insect—the lac bug of India. By means of a process akin to that of a bee's making honey, the lac bug converts the sap of trees into the shellac of commerce.

Pure white shellac is made from bleached white shellac gum which is dissolved or "cut" in alcohol. The bleached white shellac gum is derived from orange flake shellac gum, which is imported from India.

Andover Boats Vie In Weekend Races

Pitting their boats against a 30 knot not'wester, Andover skipers came out with two repeat victories in races held at Ipswich over the weekend.

In the Turnabout class Richard Whipple won both Saturday and Sunday. Following his "Jet" Saturday was Ernest Young in the jointly owned "X". He did an excellent job of sailing a newly launched, homemade craft. Fred Bradley sailed his "Betty "B" to a second place Sunday in his first race at Ipswich.

In the North Shore Ones Saturday "Willy", with a new spar, nosed out Dick Carter in his "Whata Lulu." After him Gray Whipple's "Clipper II" crossed the line followed by Walter Partridge in his "Chum Fun." Sunday "Willy" again took top honors with Carter again second. Ron Smith in "Snap" finished after Ray Sullivan for fourth after losing his main sheet. Gray Whipple was forced to drop out after shearing his rudder pin. At the time he was leading the fleet.
